Construction work on the new St. Edward Hospital stopped Wednesday morning when Carpenters Local No. 1266, of Austin, began picketing the site. Workers representing other crafts honored the picket line and work on the $1 million structure came to a standstill.

The "line" consisted of one man carrying a sign, "Carpenter's Local 1266 on strike against Linbeck Const. Co. for new contract." Pickets took turns carrying the sign.

Now With F.M.L.

A weekend of punk (as opposed to a "punk" weekend) set off trainloads of fireworks in Texas and paid traditional tribute to the Fourth of July.

It was another scorched earth when firecrackers popped and rockets left the tunnel in displays around Cameron and Central Texas. Cameron Country Club had a traditional display Saturday night. The burst and bang could be seen and heard throughout the area.

NOW-NOW-NOW

Anyone wanting to get away to the lake for the weekend had bumper-to-boat traffic in contention for highway space, surely a sign that Central Texas is finding a holiday weekend at the lake (Somerville to the south-east, Lake Belton to the west, Lake Waco to the north) a jam on the highway.

Like so many, we stayed home. Cameron was full of visitors as well as through-traffic. It was a good long weekend.

The certificate represents about 438 hours of training at schools conducted by the FBI and the Texas Department of Public Safety, more than the 400 required for intermediate classification. Other local police officers will attend training schools at Killeen this year for basic certification.

Building Bridges Centuries

The newly painted stucco and brick building on the corner of 1st and Houston Streets has a history that extends into the 19th century. The outside appearance is much as it was when the building first opened as a 3,000 sq. ft. plus furniture showplace in 1891.

Jeff Hefley, a progressive merchant and developer of early

Cameron days, built the two-story business house and operated a furniture store there for 16 years. In those days the ground floor space was enhanced with a handsome balcony.

Furniture handled by Hefley was principally of the leather and wood variety, bought more for sturdy construction than elegance.

Mrs. Ella Hooks Dobbins of Cameron recalls the building in the Hefley era. The cradle for her son was a gift from the store owner 73 years ago.

First recorded deed to the lot dates to 1835 registered by Daniel Monroe. The land was owned by seven individuals before the building was added. J. C. Tucker, J. W. Brooks, G. A. Batte, Jr., W. L. Luther, W. E. Mitchumson and J. N. Turner all owned the property in turn before 1880 when W. T. Hefley bought it for $1,150.

The value increased as Cameron grew and Jeff Hefley paid $1,500 for the property to build his store.

C. N. Green & Bros. bought the building and furniture business in 1907 and added a rope operated elevator. The balcony opening was enclosed and the second floor became headquarters for the Cameron telephone exchange. It was a vantage point for pre-dial system telephone operators to locate customers for important calls.

In the 1930s the building was converted from a furniture store to a food market and carried the name Esslinger Grocery. Later Burkes and Howard operated an appliance store there. In this period the address was Depot St. and Tucker. These street names were changed to 1st and Houston.

George Childress dubbed the property "The Insurance Corner" in the 1950s and operated an insurance and real estate business there.

Gordon Baskin, present owner, said he believed the paint applied to the second floor this summer was the first since the structure was built. He said painters had expected to find the metal trim rusted, but discovered that it was zinc and showed no signs of wear.

1890s BUILDING - Baskin Insurance Building at 1st and Houston has first complete coat of paint since constructed in 1891. The building has been furniture showplace, grocery, telephone exchange and "Insurance Corner" in its 80 year history.

Medicare authorities have threatened creditation for Richards Clinic and Hospital in Rockdale unless improvements, including a sprinkler system, are installed.

The hospital staff announced plans for a new $500,000 to $600,000 hospital in Rockdale last year, however financing details have not been completed to date.

Richards Hospital is one of 80 hospitals in Texas currently under fire from state department administrators of Medicare. Government requirements for Medicare accreditation have closed 142 hospitals in the state including hospitals in Belton and Hearne.

Since the 1966 Medicare program, the Rockdale hospital has been required to install an emergency power generating plant, an alarm system for blood storage, battery-operated power lights, heart monitoring equipment and administrative consultants.

In addition to the sprinkler system, Medicare representatives have indicated that the hospital's wooden sub-flooring does not meet Medicare standards.

Linbeck Construction Co., of Houston, is general contractor for the hospital.

Bob Lee, Linbeck superintendent, said construction on the building is about 80 percent complete.

A shipment of X-ray equipment for the hospital was being stored in a local warehouse until work resumes on the building.

IS THAT IT? A break in a water main had City Water Department workers busy Friday morning as they dug under the concrete surface of Fourth St. near the Presbyterian Church. Water leaked from several spots along a one-block area, and the trick was to find just where the break was. In the trench is Al Heft, with Emil Horelica and James Nachlinger aiding in the muddy job.

Disposers:
Common as Bathtubs

The kitchen food waste disposer, available until recent years only in custom-built homes, is rapidly becoming a standard major appliance in homes throughout the country. About 65% of today's new homes feature a food waste disposer, and it is predicted that within the next decade, such appliances will be as common as bathtubs.

One of the reasons for the growth of home food waste disposers is the fact that they process food wastes that would ordinarily be carted away as garbage—and disposal of such garbage is a major problem throughout the country. It is for this reason that more than 100 cities have made home food waste disposers a compulsory appliance in remodeled kitchens and housing units.

Food waste disposers provide a clean, efficient, germ-free and generally odorless method of disposing of home food waste. In today's top models, the major metal parts exposed to waste and water are made of stainless steel.

Why stainless steel? The extreme durability and strength of stainless steel make it ideal for use in areas where there is a heavy work load. Stainless steel is also resistant to corrosion and is economical. Its attractive appearance makes it perfect for trim, and it can be kept looking great almost indefinitely with just a minimum of care. Since there is no outer finish on stainless steel it will not chip, peel or erode. Stainless steel is sanitary, too. It is solid, and therefore, there are no pores to catch and hold germs and bacteria.

The home food waste disposer can help keep your kitchen cleaner, more sanitary and can help eliminate those unsightly bags of garbage. But, there are a few practical tips to remember: when disposing of large pieces of food waste, cut or break into small sections and then drop them slowly into the disposer. Also, never drop metal, glass or crockery particles into the food waste disposer—they do not float and will settle around parts to clog plumbing.

As far as convenience goes, what's easier than getting rid of home food waste with a flick of the wrist and swish of water? Join the ranks and have more time to relax.

Mod Hogs

Today hogs reach market weight in record time. Only four and one-half to five months and 500 pounds of feed does the job that required six to eight months and 800 pounds of feed in 1980. There are other changes.

Today many hogs are raised in concrete "pig parlors" which are kept immaculately clean, heated in the winter and cooled in the summer.

WASHINGTON, D.C.—The following letters were recently answered by the Department of State:

Contest

I am an American citizen, age 18, with the hobby of listening to short-wave radio stations. I receive many foreign radio broadcasts, including those from Communist countries, and correspond with foreign stations to receive verification cards and other information. There is nothing unpatriotic in this correspondence since it is just an educational experience. However, I received a letter from Radio Sofia (Bulgaria) inviting me to enter a contest to celebrate the 100th birthday of Lenin. First place would be a trip to Bulgaria and the USSR. I feel if I won it would be a great educational experience, showing no irreverence to the U.S.A., but I want to check with you to make sure that if I enter it will not affect my citizenship or relations between the United States and other countries. Please let me know whether I can proceed with the contest.

Tampa, Fla.

There are, of course, no legal prohibitions on the participation of private American citizens in a contest of this nature. A principal strength of our nation, as you are well aware, is found in our enjoyment of fundamental freedoms, such as freedom of speech and press, which cannot be exercised in Communist-dominated countries. Thus, the decision whether to participate in this contest rests solely with you as a free American citizen.

In making your decision, we would suggest only that you take into careful consideration the possible propaganda use to which your entry, like those of other contestants, may be put. As official organs of the governments in Communist-ruled countries, the participating radio stations may well judge entries primarily on the propaganda value which can be obtained from them.

We commend your efforts to further your knowledge of the world through listening to foreign short-wave radio broadcasts. Best wishes for your continuing interest and benefit in these educational endeavors.

We are interested in obtaining a copy of the publication, "Official Guide of Commercial Airports in

Dear A.S.K.:

The Office of International Aviation of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) is in possession of an official Soviet publication entitled, "Aerodromes and Radio Information Guide, AIP, USSR". Unfortunately, neither the Department of State nor the FAA is in a position to obtain copies of this for distribution to private citizens or institutions. If you have an inquiry concerning specific airports or routes in the Soviet Union, however, you may wish to contact Mr. John H. Shaffer, Office of International Aviation, FAA, Washington, D.C. 20553.

Alternatively, you may wish to write to the Office of the Commercial Counselor, Embassy of the USSR, 1706 18th St., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20009, to request assistance in obtaining a copy of the publication in question.

August 1 Is Deadline To Apply For Channel Catfish

FORT WORTH
The Aug. 1 application deadline for channel catfish and hybrid sunfish for stocking purposes is drawing near, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department reminds.

Each year, the Department distributes more than three million fingerling channel catfish for stocking throughout the State. The deadline for largemouth black bass, which spawn much earlier than catfish, was April 1.

Department spokesmen said many applicants applied for catfish shipments at the same time they applied for bass. Application forms may be obtained at the Department's Austin headquarters or in the various regional offices.

The deliveries ordinarily are made during October and November.

On hatchery superintendent indicated this year's crop of incubator catfish is going to be a good one. "We're in good shape right now," said James C. (Jake) Searcy of the Eagle Mountain Lake hatchery.

He said the incubators are racked up, the brooders have been returned to the holding ponds and about 430,000 young catfish are growing well.

Searcy said this year might possibly be the best for catfish raising at his hatchery, and the demand for the fingerlings will be met.

At Eagle Mountain, 57 pairs of channel catfish produced 47 spawns, and 37 pairs rematched for 31 additional spawns. As spawns were found in the jars, the eggs were transferred to the incubators until the young hatched.

Searcy said this year's spawn was "pretty good," despite continued cold weather in the late spring. He added that he feels he is able to grow a greater number of freshly hatched catfish to fingerling size now because of the use of wooden holding troughs and more effective control of predatory water bugs.

Innovative Housing . . .

An innovative effort to alleviate some of Cameron and Milam County's housing shortage drew incentive from an unanimous vote from Commissioners Court last Monday.

The proposal is to provide a regional housing authority which enables low-income housing for qualifying families. It would enable subsidy for rent or purchase of a home.

It was wisely said this is not "the" solution to our housing shortage, but it is a move to resolving a limitation on Milam's growth during the 1960's when housing unquestionably caused Cameron population to remain either the same or to slip a percentile or two.

Efforts in the private sector will also be needed, although this regional housing authority, approved now in Milam, Robertson, Limestone, Leon and Falls Counties, will use local real estate agents and local contractors and local workmen, when available.

The idea is to alleviate a contributing factor to small city and rural emigration, since farming no longer holds population in the country. It has not for 20 years.

This regional housing approach, using Housing & Urban Development funds, is only the second in the United States. The first, interestingly enough, is in Mississippi where some maximum $12,800 homes, including land cost, already have been constructed. And we understand 1,500 more are proposed there.

Maintaining the family unit in adequate housing is one goal, and an admirable goal since the family farm, the historic base of American society, is slipping from fact to antiquity.

"Low Down" FROM THE Congressional Record By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

FIREWORKS WE CAN DO WITHOUT

Reports that need more publicity are those that reflect the amount of war material captured, destroyed or removed from the enemy sanctuaries in Cambodia.

Few pictures of these huge supply dumps have reached this country. Emphasis from some quarters, seems to be on the amount of material we've missed, while at the same time carping about our reasons for being there.

The fact remains that the vast amount of ammunition captured will not be used to kill or wound American servicemen. Also it will set the enemy attack timetable back months.

An up-to-date report of the amount of material captured appears almost every day in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD. It is placed there by Senators of both parties representing every section of the country. The latest report was placed in the Record by Senator Clifford P. Hansen (Wyo.).

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

If the American forces had lost this vast amount of war material to enemy action, heads would roll.

When it is realized the tremendous amount of shipping, trucking and backbreaking effort that went into building up these huge supply depots, we can appreciate the shock effect to the North Vietnam military. These stockpiles were built up for the express purpose of turning the American withdrawal into a rout. The American military has no intention of being a party to an American "Dunkirk," in South Vietnam.—J.C.

New Books At City Library

Recent books now available at the Cameron Public Library include the following titles. Summer library hours are 10:30 to 12:30 and 1:30 to 5:30 Monday and Thursday, 10 to 1:30 Friday and 9 to 4 on Saturday.

BEETHOVEN - BIOGRAPHY OF A GENIUS, by George R. Marek, Funk & Wagnalls publ., $10. Marking the two hundredth anniversary of the birth of Ludwig van Beethoven, this lively biography is a detailed, colorful account of the great composer's personality and unique quality of genius. It is beautifully illustrated with more than 70 black-and-white illustrations of the people and places important in Beethoven's life.

LOSING BATTLES, by Eudora Welty, Random House publ., $7.95. The author's first novel in 15 years, Losing Battles is the story of rural Mississippi in the 1930's that will immediately be recognized as a classic in the seriocomic tradition in American fiction. Miss Welty, also the author of A Curtain of Green and The Ponder Heart, is a native of Mississippi, background for many of her books and short stories.

THE VELVET HAMMER, by Faith Baldwin, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, publ., $4.95. The difficulties of living with a domineering mother-in-law confront Meg Brand, a young and beautiful war widow, in Faith Baldwin's sixty-third novel - one of her most engrossing and delightful to date.

THE CHOSEN PLACE, THE TIMELESS PEOPLE, by Paule Marshall, Harcourt, Brace & World publ., $8.95. The chosen place of Paule Marshall's powerful new novel is Bourneville, a near-wasteland of eroded hills at the remote end of a West Indian island. It is a place that stubbornly refuses to forgo its past, the long wounding history of slavery that has shaped it. The timeless people of her title are its inhabitants - black, poor and as mysteriously committed to that past era as the place.

THE SPOTTED SPHINX, by Joy Adamson, Harcourt, Brace & World publ., $7.95. Joy Adamson, author of Born Free, Living Free and Forever Free, has a new and fascinating animal story to tell. This time it is centered on Pippa, a cheetah given to her by her owners, who had raised her as a pet. Mrs. Adamson decided to restore this great and graceful cat to its natural wild heritage, in spite of the fact that no domesticated cheetah had ever consented to return to the bush.

AUDUBON, BY HIMSELF, edited by Alice Ford, Natural History Press publ., $8.95. This self-portrait of the great American naturalist John James Audubon takes the place of the autobiography that he intended but never quite managed to write. He was a born storyteller, however, and wrote profusely and enthusiastically about his experiences in the cities, towns, and wilds of nineteenth century America.

THE END OF THE ROMANOV'S, by Victor Alexandrov, Little, Brown & Co., publ., $6.50. A recapitulation and interpretation of the intricate interplay of circumstances surrounding the execution of Tzar Nicholas II and his family. The central event is of course anticipated, but when it is finally unfolded with all its ramifications, it still comes as a fateful shock, an experience at once intolerable and inevitable.

A NEW WORLD OF FLOWER ARRANGEMENT, by Patricia Kroh, Doubleday publ., $7.95. A complete guide to modern concepts of designing with flowers; a book that takes the mystery out of what constitutes an abstract-like flower arrangement, and shows how ideas for creative designs come about. Illustrated in both color and black-and-white.

LETTING GO, by Philip Roth, Random House publ., $5.95. A bright new novel by the author of Goodbye, Columbus, a work that won an array of prizes culminating in the National Book Award in 1960. This is a contemporary scene of love and responsibility that finds the hero reaching for a proper relationship between his own worldly good fortune and the misfortune of others.

MY LORD BROTHER THE LION HEART, by Molly Costain Haycraft, Lippincott, publ., A new historical novel of Joan, daughter of Henry II of England and Eleanor of Aquitaine, and favorite sister of Richard Coeur de Lion who married William, King of Sicily.

SELZNICK, by Bob Thomas, Doubleday publ., $7.95. In the days when Hollywood films were being cranked out by the big studios the way Detroit turned out automobiles, one man clung to the belief that a motion picture was like a painting which had to be painted and signed by a single artist. In this biography, Bob Thomas tells the story of the stormy career of David O. Selznick by personified the label "legend."

Summer Time Fish Fry

There are three ways to fry fish -- pan frying, deep-fat frying, oven frying.

All frozen fish should be thawed before frying. For best frying results, cut larger fish into serving-size portions, but smaller fish (pan-dressed size) can be fried whole.

Fish that are to be fried should be dipped in a liquid such as egg, milk, or lemon juice and rolled in your favorite breading of crackers, bread crumbs, or corn meal. Deep-fat fried fish may be covered with a batter.

Do not let the fat smoke or burn when you are pan frying or deep fat frying fish. Burning and smoking fat gives the fish a bad flavor.

Oven-fried fish are cooked on a baking pan in a very hot oven (500F). Pour a little melted fat or cooking oil over the fish to keep them from drying.

For best cooking, place only one layer of fish at a time in a frying pan, deep-fat fryer, baking pan, or broiler pan.

Turn all pan fried fish when they are lightly browned on one side. Then cook the fish until they are light brown on the second side. The frying time is relatively short, 8-12 minutes, varying with the thickness of the fish. If the fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, then it is ready for serving.

For a fried fish favorite that is easy on your pocket book, as well as being quick and easy to prepare, try this convenient new recipe using buttermilk and bisquick.

BUTTERMILK FRIED FILLETS
2 pounds fillets, fresh or frozen
1 cup buttermilk
1 1/4 cups biscuit mix
2 teaspoons salt
Lemon wedges

Thaw frozen fillets. Skin fillets and cut into serving-size portions. Place fish in a single layer in a shallow baking dish. Pour buttermilk over fish and let stand for 30 minutes, turning once. Combine biscuit mix and salt. Remove fish from buttermilk and roll in biscuit mix. Fry in hot fat at moderate heat for 4 to 5 minutes or until brown. Turn carefully and fry 4 to 5 minutes longer or until fish is brown and flakes easily when tested with a fork. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve with lemon wedges. Serves 6.

ALLIGATORS SAFE

An estimated 15,000 to 20,000 alligators still populate Texas swamps, lakes, and brackish lagoons. They are expected to increase now that they are a protected species.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Dr. Bertram S. Brown, Director
National Institute of Mental Health

President Nixon on Drug Abuse

President Nixon recently issued a statement on drug abuse that should be read by every American:

"In recent months, there have been stories about two heroin addicts that starkly illustrated the ominous nature of the narcotics problems. Like many addicts, one of them not only used the drug, but sold it. Their stories were, in fact, different from those of other drug addicts in only one major aspect: each was only 12 years old."

"One boy is being treated for addiction at a clinic. The other died from an overdose of heroin."

"Drug addiction among school age youth is increasing at an alarming rate. Although funds for drug education and training have grown six-fold between fiscal 1969 and fiscal 1971, the situation calls for much greater effort."

The President next outlined six major points of the new effort. These included teacher training, education, and other projects and will be covered in subsequent columns of Mental Health Matters, owing to their importance to every citizen and community in the country.

President Nixon closed his special remarks on the drug problem with a strong statement that the Administration was placing high priority on the whole fight on drug abuse.

As an indication, he pointed out an invigorated effort in the field of drug abuse training and education.

"Closely related to these projects," he said, "is this Administration's decision to more than double the amount of money that will be spent this fiscal year on research into the effects of marijuana on man."

Lack of research knowledge, in-depth and on a wide scale, has been one of the chief hampering factors in building bases for sound programs to deal with the widespread and much-talked-about problem of marijuana smoking.

The President closed his statement by saying:

"One of the great tragedies of the past decade has been that our schools, where our children should learn about the wonder of life, have often been the place where they learn the living—and sometimes actual—death of drug abuse."

"There is no priority higher in this Administration than to see that children—and the public—learn the facts about drugs in the right way and for the right purposes through education."

The Summer Saga of Safety

NEW YORK (ED)—So you've bought a new power mower and you can't wait to get at that tall grass around your manse. Know the first safe thing to do? Read your owner's manual! That's right. According to the O.P.E.I. you should get to know every nook and cranny of the machine. It could prevent an accident later on. And if you've owned a mower and never read the manual, get one from your dealer and do your homework.

Now, you're ready to begin cutting. Right? Wrong! Make sure the lawn is cleared first—of small stones, rocks, twigs, kids and pets. Mowers can pick up and dispel such debris, sometimes with youngsters and animals as targets. Well, patience indeed has its rewards. You are ready to begin. Now, watch out for the time when you run out of gas. Let the engine cool off completely before you refuel.

Push, don't pull the machine, to avoid pulling its cutting blade over a toe. For those steep stretches of lawn, always mow sideways. That way you won't slip down into the machine. Never leave the machine around idling, even for a break to get a soft drink. It's too much of a temptation for a youngster who could seriously harm himself. What's the most dangerous thing you could do? Trying to clear the discharge chute without shutting the engine or trying to clean the blade without first disconnecting the spark plug. That seemingly innocent machine, with its engine switch at the "off" position, can turn on at the slightest provocation. So keep fingers and toes clear—always!

STRIPED BASS FRY

A half million tiny striped bass fry were flown from South Carolina and Virginia for Texas Parks and Wildlife Department. The salt-water species is being experimentally stocked in Texas reservoirs.

Bearded Iris Thrive In Sunny Areas Of Yard

For brilliant colors in those sunny exposed areas of the yard, Everett E. Janne, Texas A&M University landscape horticulturist, suggests bearded iris.

These plants need plenty of sunshine, and that southern exposure with good air circulation is just the place to produce a colorful array of flowers if the bed is properly prepared, Janne said.

"Because of the rainbow of colors available, iris can be used in almost any shaped bed or area that has ample sun," he noted. "They make excellent plants to use in those odd shaped corners or borders."

Now is the time to start thinking of planting these slender stalked beauties, and by making selections early, there will be a better variety of colors and sizes to choose from, Janne said.

"Actually the time to transplant iris is in late July and early August, but if at all possible start preparing the beds now, as this will allow the soil to settle before the plants are set in the ground," Janne explained. "The beds should be dug up and soil loosened to a depth of 12 to 18 inches. If the soil is heavy or contains a lot of clay, add well-rotted manure, sawdust, or peat moss to improve drainage."

"Iris must have well drained soil to prevent root or stem rot," Fertilize with a complete fertilizer, such as 8-8-8 or 10-10-10, at the rate of one pound per 100 square feet and mix thoroughly into the soil to a depth of at least eight to 10 inches so there is no danger of burning the new plants, Janne said.

"After the bed settles, you will be ready to plant the rhizomes in late July through August," he said. "Set the rhizomes one to two feet apart with the top just below the surface and the leafy end pointing in the direction you want them to spread."

"On slopes set the rhizome with the growing or leaf-end facing up-hill and water the bed to settle the soil and as an aid to initiate growth."

Be careful thereafter to NOT overwater until the plants are actively growing, Janne noted. "Overcrowded beds or clumps should be lifted and divided right after they bloom," Janne said. "Use a sharp knife to divide the rhizomes, discarding the older woody center of the clump."

"Plant only the healthy sections with a good fan of leaves."

When transplanting, the leaves may be cut back to six inches for convenient handling, otherwise, don't remove leaves until they die back, he said.

"Old or dry leaves and other debris should be cleaned out of the bed in late fall," Janne noted. Tremendous strides have taken place in iris breeding in recent years resulting in a wide range of new colors and color combinations as well as in plant size and flower size, he said. Varieties are now available which rival or exceed the orchid in splendor, Janne added. "Don't forget to include this colorful plant as you plan your landscape renovation program," Janne said.

Always keep your stringer tied short enough so that it won't get in the way of the prop when you start your outboard motor, or when trolling. Many fine strings of fish have been lost because a stringer was severed by a prop.

Construction work on the new St. Edward Hospital stopped Wednesday morning when Carpenters Local No. 1266, of Austin, began picketing the site. Workers representing other crafts honored the picket line and work on the $1 million structure came to a standstill.

The "line" consisted of one man carrying a sign, "Carpenters Local 1266 on strike against Linbeck Const. Co. for new contract." Pickets took turns carrying the sign.

Linbeck Construction Co., of Houston, is general contractor for the hospital. Bob Lee, Linbeck superintendent, said construction on the building is about 80 percent complete.

A shipment of X-ray equipment for the hospital was being stored in a local warehouse until work resumes on the building.

Rockdale Hospital Threatened

Medicare authorities have threatened creditation for Richards Clinic and Hospital in Rockdale unless improvements, including a sprinkler system, are installed.

The hospital staff announced plans for a new $500,000 hospital in Rockdale last year, however financing details have not been completed to date.

Richards Hospital is one of 80 hospitals in Texas currently under fire from state department administrators of Medicare. Government requirements for Medicare accreditation have closed 142 hospitals in the state including hospitals in Belton and Hearne.

Since the 1966 Medicare program, the Rockdale hospital has been required to install an emergency power generating plant, an alarm system for blood storage, battery-operated power lights, heart monitoring equipment and administrative consultants.

In addition to the sprinkler system, Medicare representatives have indicated that the hospital's wooden sub-flooring does not meet Medicare standards.

IS THAT IT? A break in a water main had City Water Department workers busy Friday morning as they dug under the concrete surface of Fourth St. near the Presbyterian Church. Water leaked from several spots along a one-block area, and the trick was to find just where the break was. In the trench is Al Hefft, with Emil Horelica and James Nachlinger aiding in the muddy job.

Now With F.M.L.

A weekend of punk (as opposed to a "punk" weekend) set off trainloads of fireworks in Texas and paid traditional tribute to the Fourth of July.

It was another scorched earth when firecrackers popped and rockets left the tunnel in displays around Cameron and Central Texas. Cameron Country Club had a traditional display Saturday night. The burst and bang could be seen and heard throughout the area.

NOW-NOW-NOW

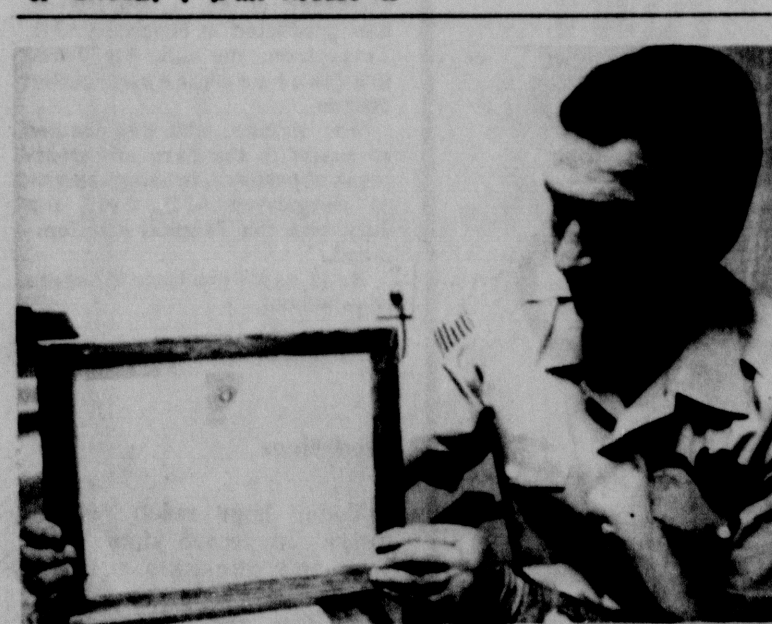

Anyone wanting to get away to the lake for the weekend had bumper-to-bumper traffic in contention for highway space, surely a sign that Central Texas is finding a holiday weekend at the lake (Somerville to the south-east, Lake Belton to the west, Lake Waco to the north) is a jam on the highway.

Like so many, we stayed home. Cameron was full of visitors as well as through-traffic. It was a good long weekend.

Building Bridges Centuries

The newly painted stucco and brick building on the corner of 1st and Houston Streets has a history that extends into the 19th century. The outside appearance is much as it was when the building first opened as a 3,000 sq. ft. plus furniture showplace in 1891.

Jeff Hefley, a progressive merchant and developer of early

Cameron days, built the two-story business house and operated a furniture store there for 16 years. In those days the ground floor space was enhanced with a handsome balcony.

Furniture handled by Hefley was principally of the leather and wood variety, bought more for sturdy construction than elegance.

1890s BUILDING - Baskin Insurance Building at 1st and Houston has first complete coat of paint since constructed in 1891. The building has been furniture showplace, grocery, telephone exchange and "Insurance Corner" in its 80 year history.

Disposers:
Common as Bathtubs

The kitchen food waste disposer, available until recent years only in custom-built homes, is rapidly becoming a standard major appliance in homes throughout the country. About 65% of today's new homes feature a food waste disposer, and it is predicted that within the next decade, such appliances will be as common as bathtubs.

One of the reasons for the growth of home food waste disposers is the fact that they process food wastes that would ordinarily be carted away as garbage—and disposal of such garbage is a major problem throughout the country. It is for this reason that more than 100 cities have made home food waste disposers a compulsory appliance in remodeled kitchens and housing units.

Food waste disposers provide a clean, efficient, germ-free and generally odorless method of disposing of home food waste. In today's top models, the major metal parts exposed to waste and water are made of stainless steel.

Why stainless steel? The extreme durability and strength of stainless steel make it ideal for use in areas where there is a heavy work load. Stainless steel is also resistant to corrosion and is economical. Its attractive appearance makes it perfect for trim, and it can be kept looking great almost indefinitely with just a minimum of care. Since there is no outer finish on stainless steel it will not chip, peel or erode. Stainless steel is sanitary, too. It is solid, and therefore, there are no pores to catch and hold germs and bacteria.

The home food waste disposer can help keep your kitchen cleaner, more sanitary and can help eliminate those unsightly bags of garbage. But, there are a few practical tips to remember: when disposing of large pieces of food waste, cut or break into small sections and then drop them slowly into the disposer. Also, never drop metal, glass or crockery particles into the food waste disposer—they do not float and will settle around parts to clog plumbing.

As far as convenience goes, what's easier than getting rid of home food waste with a flick of the wrist and swish of water? Join the ranks and have more time to relax.

Innovative Housing . . .

An innovative effort to alleviate some of Cameron and Milam County's housing shortage drew incentive from an unanimous vote from Commissioners Court last Monday.

The proposal is to provide a regional housing authority which enables low-income housing for qualifying families. It would enable subsidy for rent or purchase of a home.

It was wisely said this is not "the" solution to our housing shortage, but it is a move to resolving a limitation on Milam's growth during the 1960's when housing unquestionably caused Cameron population to remain either the same or to slip a percentile or two.

Efforts in the private sector will also be needed, although this regional housing authority, approved now in Milam, Robertson, Limestone, Leon and Falls Counties, will use local real estate agents and local contractors and local workmen, when available.

The idea is to alleviate a contributing factor to small city and rural emigration, since farming no longer holds population in the country. It has not for 20 years.

This regional housing approach, using Housing & Urban Development funds, is only the second in the United States. The first, interestingly enough, is in Mississippi where some maximum $12,800 homes, including land cost, already have been constructed. And we understand 1,500 more are proposed there.

Maintaining the family unit in adequate housing is one goal, and an admirable goal since the family farm, the historic base of American society, is slipping from fact to antiquity.

"Low Down"
FROM THE
Congressional Record
By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

FIREWORKS WE CAN DO WITHOUT

Reports that need more publicity are those that reflect the amount of war material captured, destroyed or removed from the enemy sanctuaries in Cambodia.

Few pictures of these huge supply dumps have reached this country. Emphasis from some quarters, seems to be on the amount of material we've missed, while at the same time carping about our reasons for being there.

The fact remains that the vast amount of ammunition captured will not be used to kill or wound American servicemen. Also it will set the enemy attack timetable back months.

An up-to-date report of the amount of material captured appears almost every day in the CONGRESSIONAL RECORD. It is placed there by Senators of both parties representing every section of the country. The latest report was placed in the Record by Senator Clifford P. Hansen (Wyo.).

Rifle rounds. . . 7,883,871
Machinegun rounds 3,751,142
Anti-aircraft rounds. . . 188,319
Mortar rounds. . . 50,988
Recoilless rifle rounds. . . 22,781
Large rocket rounds. . . 1,707

A GRASSROOTS COMMENT

If the American forces had lost this vast amount of war material to enemy action, heads would roll.

When it is realized the tremendous amount of shipping, trucking and backbreaking effort that went into building up these huge supply depots, we can appreciate the shock effect to the North Vietnam military. These stockpiles were built up for the express purpose of turning the American withdrawal into a rout. The American military has no intention of being a party to an American "Dunkirk," in South Vietnam.—J.C.

The Diplomatic Pouch

WASHINGTON, D. C.--The following letters were recently answered by the Department of State:

Contest

I am an American citizen, age 18, with the hobby of listening to short-wave radio stations. I receive many foreign radio broadcasts, including those from Communist countries, and correspond with foreign stations to receive verification cards and other information. There is nothing unpatriotic in this correspondence since it is just an educational experience. However, I received a letter from Radio Sofia (Bulgaria) inviting me to enter a contest to celebrate the 100th birthday of Lenin. First place would be a trip to Bulgaria and the USSR. I feel if I won it would be a great educational experience, showing no irreverence to the U.S.A., but I want to check with you to make sure that if I enter it will not affect my citizenship or relations between the United States and other countries. Please let me know whether I can proceed with the contest.

S.J.B.
Tampa, Fla.

Dear S.J.B.:

There are, of course, no legal prohibitions on the participation of private American citizens in a contest of this nature. A principal strength of our nation, as you are well aware, is found in our enjoyment of fundamental freedoms, such as freedom of speech and press, which cannot be exercised in Communist-dominated countries. Thus, the decision whether to participate in this contest rests solely with you as a free American citizen.

In making your decision, we would suggest only that you take into careful consideration the possible propaganda use to which your entry, like those of other contestants, may be put. As official organs of the governments in Communist-ruled countries, the participating radio stations may well judge entries primarily on the propaganda value which can be obtained from them.

We commend your efforts to further your knowledge of the world through listening to foreign short-wave radio broadcasts. Best wishes for your continuing interest and benefit in these educational endeavors.

Airports in USSR

We are interested in obtaining a copy of the publication, "Official Guide of Commercial Airports in Russia." If you are unable to supply this material, a suggested source of availability would be greatly appreciated.

A.S.K.
Seattle, Wash.

Dear A.S.K.:

The Office of International Aviation of the Federal Aviation Agency (FAA) is in possession of an official Soviet publication entitled, "Aerodromes and Radio Information Guide, AIP, USSR". Unfortunately, neither the Department of State nor the FAA is in a position to obtain copies of this for distribution to private citizens or institutions. If you have an inquiry concerning specific airports or routes in the Soviet Union, however, you may wish to contact Mr. John H. Shaffer, Office of International Aviation, FAA, Washington, D.C. 20553.

Alternatively, you may wish to write to the Office of the Commercial Counselor, Embassy of the USSR, 1706 18th St., N.W. Washington, D.C. 20009, to request assistance in obtaining a copy of the publication in question.

Do you have an inquiry about U.S. foreign policy? Send it to: "The Diplomatic Pouch" P/MS, Room 4831 Department of State Washington, D.C. 20520

August 1 Is Deadline To Apply For Channel Catfish

FORT WORTH

The Aug. 1 application deadline for channel catfish and hybrid sunfish for stocking purposes is drawing near, the Texas Parks and Wildlife Department reminds.

Each year, the Department distributes more than three million fingerling channel catfish for stocking throughout the State.

The deadline for largemouth black bass, which spawn much earlier than catfish, was April 1.

Department spokesmen said many applicants applied for catfish shipments at the same time they applied for bass. Application forms may be obtained at the Department's Austin headquarters or in the various regional offices.

The deliveries ordinarily are made during October and November.

On hatchery superintendent indicated this year's crop of incubator catfish is going to be a good one. "We're in good shape right now," said James C. (Jake) Searcy of the Eagle Mountain Lake hatchery.

He said the incubators are racked up, the brooders have been returned to the holding ponds and about 430,000 young catfish are growing well.

Searcy said this year might possibly be the best for catfish raising at his hatchery, and the demand for the fingerlings will be met.

At Eagle Mountain, 57 pairs of channel catfish produced 47 spawns, and 37 pairs rematched for 31 additional spawns. As spawns were found in the jars, the eggs were transferred to the incubators until the young hatched.

Searcy said this year's spawn was "pretty good," despite continued cold weather in the late spring. He added that he feels he is able to grow a greater number of freshly hatched catfish to fingerling size now because of the use of wooden holding troughs and more effective control of predatory water bugs.

The author's first novel in 15 years, Losing Battles is the story of rural Mississippi in the 1930's that will immediately be recognized as a classic in the seriocomic tradition in American fiction. Miss Welty, also the author of A Curtain of Green and The Ponder Heart, is a native of Mississippi, background for many of her books and short stories.

THE PUEBLO INCIDENT, by Rear Admiral Daniel V. Gallery, Ret., Doubleday publ., $5.95. Adm. Gallery is the officer whose men boarded and captured the German submarine U505 - the only enemy warship taken in battle on the high seas since 1815. In this book he says what he thinks about the only US Navy ship boarded and captured since the days of sail. He doesn't approve of it.

THE VELVET HAMMER, by Faith Baldwin, Holt, Rinehart and Winston, publ., $4.95. The difficulties of living with a dominating mother-in-law confront Meg Brand, a young and beautiful war widow, in Faith Baldwin's sixty-third novel - one of her most engrossing and delightful to date.

THE CHOSEN PLACE, THE TIMELESS PEOPLE, by Paule Marshall, Harcourt, Brace & World publ., $8.95. The chosen place of Paule Marshall's powerful new novel is Bourneville, a near-wasteland of eroded hills at the remote end of a West Indian island. It is a place that stubbornly refuses to forgo its past, the long wounding history of slavery that has shaped it. The timeless people of her title are its inhabitants - black, poor and as mysteriously committed to that past era as the place.

THE SPOTTED SPHINX, by Joy Adamson, Harcourt, Brace & World publ., $7.95. Joy Adamson, author of Born Free, Living Free and Forever Free, has a new and fascinating animal story to tell. This time it is centered on Pippa, a cheetah given to her by her owners, who had raised her as a pet. Mrs. Adamson decided to restore this great and graceful cat to its natural wild heritage, in spite of the fact that no domesticated cheetah had ever consented to return to the bush.

AUDUBON, BY HIMSELF, edited by Alice Ford, Natural History Press publ., $8.95. This self-portrait of the great American naturalist John James Audubon takes the place of the autobiography that he intended but never quite managed to write. He was a born storyteller, however, and wrote profusely and enthusiastically about his experiences in the cities, towns, and wilds of nineteenth century America.

THE END OF THE ROMANOV'S, by Victor Alexandrov, Little, Brown & Co., publ., $6.50. A recapitulation and interpretation of the intricate interplay of circumstances surrounding the execution of Tzar Nicholas II and his family. The central event is of course anticipated, but when it is finally unfolded with all its ramifications, it still comes as a fearful shock, an experience at once intolerable and inevitable.

A NEW WORLD OF FLOWER ARRANGEMENT, by Patricia Kroh, Doubleday publ., $7.95. A complete guide to modern concepts of designing with flowers; a book that takes the mystery out of what constitutes an abstract-like flower arrangement, and shows how ideas for creative designs come about. Illustrated in both color and black-and-white.

LETTING GO, by Philip Roth, Random House publ., $5.95. A bright new novel by the author of Goodbye, Columbus, a work that won an array of prizes culminating in the National Book Award in 1960. This is a contemporary scene of love and responsibility that finds the hero reaching for a proper relationship between his own worldly good fortune and the misfortune of others.

MY LORD BROTHER THE LION HEART, by Molly Costain Haycraft, Lippincott, publ., $6.95. A new historical novel of Joan, daughter of Henry II of England and Eleanor of Aquitaine, and favorite sister of Richard Coeur de Lion who married William, King of Sicily.

SELZNICK, by Bob Thomas, Doubleday publ., $7.95. In the days when Hollywood films were being cranked out by the big studios the way Detroit turned out automobiles, one man clung to the belief that a motion picture was like a painting which had to be painted and signed by a single artist. In this biography, Bob Thomas tells the story of the stormy career of David O. Selznick by personified the label "legend."

Summer Time Fish Fry

There are three ways to fry fish -- pan frying, deep-fat frying, oven frying.

All frozen fish should be thawed before frying. For best frying results, cut larger fish into serving-size portions, but smaller fish (pan-dressed size) can be fried whole.

Fish that are to be fried should be dipped in a liquid such as egg, milk, or lemon juice and rolled in your favorite breading of crackers, bread crumbs, or corn meal. Deep-fat fried fish may be covered with a batter.

Do not let the fat smoke or burn when you are pan frying or deep fat frying fish. Burning and smoking fat gives the fish a bad flavor.

Oven-fried fish are cooked on a baking pan in a very hot oven (500°F). Pour a little melted fat or cooking oil over the fish to keep them from drying.

For best cooking, place only one layer of fish at a time in a frying pan, deep-fat fryer, baking pan, or broiler pan.

Turn all pan fried fish when they are lightly browned on one side. Then cook the fish until they are light brown on the second side. The frying time is relatively short, 8-12 minutes, varying with the thickness of the fish. If the fish flakes easily when tested with a fork, then it is ready for serving.

For a fried fish favorite that is easy on your pocket book, as well as being quick and easy to prepare, try this convenient new recipe using buttermilk and bisquick.

BUTTERMILK FRIED FILLETS
2 pounds fillets, fresh or frozen
1 cup buttermilk
1 1/4 cups biscuit mix
2 teaspoons salt
Lemon wedges

Thaw frozen fillets. Skin fillets and cut into serving-size portions. Place fish in a single layer in a shallow baking dish. Pour buttermilk over fish and let stand for 30 minutes, turning once. Combine biscuit mix and salt. Remove fish from buttermilk and roll in biscuit mix. Fry in hot fat at moderate heat for 4 to 5 minutes or until brown. Turn carefully and fry 4 to 5 minutes longer or until fish is brown and flakes easily when tested with a fork. Drain on absorbent paper. Serve with lemon wedges. Serves 6.

ALLIGATORS SAFE

An estimated 15,000 to 20,000 alligators still populate Texas swamps, lakes, and brackish lagoons. They are expected to increase now that they are a protected species.

MENTAL HEALTH MATTERS

Dr. Bertram S. Brown, Director
National Institute of Mental Health

President Nixon on Drug Abuse

President Nixon recently issued a statement on drug abuse that should be read by every American:

"In recent months, there have been stories about two heroin addicts that starkly illustrated the ominous nature of the narcotics problems. Like many addicts, one of them not only used the drug, but sold it. Their stories were, in fact, different from those of other drug addicts in only one major aspect: each was only 12 years old."

"One boy is being treated for addiction at a clinic. The other died from an overdose of heroin."

"Drug addiction among school age youth is increasing at an alarming rate. Although funds for drug education and training have grown six-fold between fiscal 1969 and fiscal 1971, the situation calls for much greater effort."

The President next outlined six major points of the new effort. These included teacher training, education, and other projects and will be covered in subsequent columns of Mental Health Matters, owing to their importance to every citizen and community in the country.

President Nixon closed his special remarks on the drug problem with a strong statement that the Administration was placing high priority on the whole fight on drug abuse.

As an indication, he pointed out an invigorated effort in the field of drug abuse training and education.

"Closely related to these projects," he said, "is this Administration's decision to more than double the amount of money that will be spent this fiscal year on research into the effects of marihuana on man."

Lack of research knowledge, in-depth and on a wide scale, has been one of the chief hampering factors in building bases for sound programs to deal with the widespread and much-talked-about problem of marihuana smoking.

The President closed his statement by saying:

"One of the great tragedies of the past decade has been that our schools, where our children should learn about the wonder of life, have often been the place where they learn the living—and sometimes actual—death of drug abuse."

"There is no priority higher in this Administration than to see that children—and the public—learn the facts about drugs in the right way and for the right purposes through education."

The Summer Saga of Safety

NEW YORK (ED)—So you've bought a new power mower and you can't wait to get at that tall grass around your manse. Know the first safe thing to do? Read your owner's manual! That's right. According to the O.P.E.I., you should get to know every nook and cranny of the machine. It could prevent an accident later on. And if you've owned a mower and never read the manual, get one from your dealer and do your homework.

Now, you're ready to begin cutting. Right? Wrong! Make sure the lawn is cleared first—of small stones, rocks, twigs, kids and pets. Mowers can pick up and dispel such debris, sometimes with youngsters and animals as targets. Well, patience indeed has its rewards. You are ready to begin. Now, watch out for the time when you run out of gas. Let the engine cool off completely before you refuel.

Push, don't pull the machine, to avoid pulling its cutting blade over a toe. For those steep stretches of lawn, always move sideways. That way you won't slip down into the machine.

Never leave the machine around idling, even for a break to get a soft drink. It's too much of a temptation for a youngster who could seriously harm himself. What's the most dangerous thing you could do? Trying to clear the discharge chute without shutting the engine or trying to clean the blade without first disconnecting the spark plug. That seemingly innocent machine, with its engine switch at the "off" position, can turn on at the slightest provocation. So keep fingers and toes clear—always!

AMERICA GOES CAMPING

Dining Out—In The Wilderness

In the past decade, camping convenience has become legendary. And this has extended to the chore of preparing meals for the family in the wilderness. Campers are available with gas stoves and ovens ranges. Frozen foods go along happily on a camping trek, ready to be eaten at whim. And quick food tricks can be used by any smart Lady of the Camp to feed the hungry brood.

If you're using a simple open fire, try whipping up a fine kettle of fish soup in a jiffy. All you have to do is open a few cans of minestrone soup, some canned peeled tomatoes and chunks of your own freshly caught fish. Simmer and serve, with hunks of crusty Italian bread.

For variety, loaves of date nut bread can be pre-baked at home and kept fresh during the trip by wrapping them in foil or a moisture-proof wrap. Frozen foods like fried chicken and French fries can be thawed and reheated in foil on a grill. For clean-up convenience, serve the fries in individual paper cups.

Clean-up can also be facilitated with Handy Wipes® all-purpose cloths. These soft, absorbent cloths with 1001 uses wipe off the picnic table, any dishes, and dirty hands, then rinse out to be used over and over again.

All that fresh air is sure to arouse normal appetites to a ravenous state. For snacks, keep packages of luncheon meat, cheese and hero rolls handy. Heroes can be quickly assembled from these ingredients and topped with canned vegetables like artichoke hearts and olives.

Dining out in the wilderness

can be an exciting event. And with handy convenience items—it can be as comfortable as home, sweet home.

Bearded Iris Thrive In Sunny Areas Of Yard

For brilliant colors in those sunny exposed areas of the yard, Everett E. Janne, Texas A&M University landscape horticulturist, suggests bearded iris. These plants need plenty of sunshine, and that southern exposure with good air circulation is just the place to produce a colorful array of flowers if the bed is properly prepared, Janne said.

"Because of the rainbow of colors available, iris can be used in almost any shaped bed or area that has ample sun," he noted. "They make excellent plants to use in those odd shaped corners or borders."

Now is the time to start thinking of planting these slender stalked beauties, and by making selections early, there will be a better variety of colors and sizes to choose from, Janne said.

"Actually the time to transplant iris is in late July and early August, but if at all possible start preparing the beds now, as this will allow the soil to settle before the plants are set in the ground," Janne explained. "The beds should be dug up and soil loosened to a depth of 12 to 18 inches. If the soil is heavy or contains a lot of clay, add well-rotted manure, sawdust, or peat moss to improve drainage."

"Iris must have well drained soil to prevent root or stem rot." Fertilize with a complete fertilizer, such as 8-8-8 or 10-10-10, at the rate of one pound per 100 square feet and mix thoroughly into the soil to a depth of at least eight to 10 inches so there is no danger of burning the new plants, Janne said.

"After the bed settles, you will be ready to plant the rhizomes in late July through August," he said. "Set the rhizomes one to two feet apart with the top just below the surface and the leafy end pointing in the direction you want them to spread."

"On slopes set the rhizome with the growing or leaf-end facing up-hill and water the bed to settle the soil and as an aid to initiate growth."

Be careful thereafter to NOT overwater until the plants are actively growing, Janne noted. "Overcrowded beds or clumps should be lifted and divided right after they bloom," Janne said. "Use a sharp knife to divide the rhizomes, discarding the older woody center of the clump."

"Plant only the healthy sections with a good fan of leaves." When transplanting, the leaves may be cut back to six inches for convenient handling, otherwise, don't remove leaves until they die back, he said. Old or dry leaves and other debris should be cleaned out of the bed in late fall," Janne noted. Tremendous strides have taken place in iris breeding in recent years resulting in a wide range of new colors and color combinations as well as in plant size and flower size, he said. Varieties are now available which rival or exceed the orchid in splendor, Janne added. "Don't forget to include this colorful plant as you plan your landscape renovation program," Janne said.
